Subject: Florida website possibility- AIB

Hello,

I am the new web developer at MTNA. I was recently reading the email that you had sent Julianne Miranda regarding some questions about the AIB system and its compatibility with your current systems. It is an online content management system and Front Page would not be needed to edit the site.

The searchable databases come in the following:

1. Member name, teaching area and email are displayed; additional content information is only available with an MTNA member number (<st1:State w:st="on">Florida member)
2. Member name, teaching area, email and phone are displayed; postal address is only available with a valid MTNA member number (<st1:State w:st="on">Florida member)
3. All contact info presented without restriction
4. All contact info restricted to valid Florida MTNA member number.

The event registration form is a non-Ecommerce (in other words, they complete the registration, print and mail with check)

We have not implemented a calendar feature in this version of AIB and are offering 3rd party alternatives (Google calendar for example)

We can also create a special page for the conference schedules within the AIB.

Our affiliates typically use Go Daddy for hosting as we have not worked with Verio.com. All that we need to do is to be able to turn on support for an Access database, have full FTP access and be able to create a folder for the database.

The entire process at most would take a month to six weeks, but usually are done before then. I apologize, but I did not have Ms. Amy Turon's email to copy her in this message.

Please let me know if you have any questions for me, and I would be happy to set the AIB up for you.

Thank you

Mendy McKinnis
